

The Prinz Law Office Announces New Quarterly Fractional Service Plans

The Prinz Law Office is pleased to announce the availability of new quarterly fractional service plans, effective immediately. The new fractional service plans are intended for the client who seeks to reserve the firm's time on defined terms without the commitment of exhausting the time reserved within a single calendar month. The new quarterly plans allow for ninety (90) days to utilize the reserved time instead of the usual thirty (30) day legal subscription periods, thereby providing clients with more flexibility in utilizing their subscription commitments. The quarterly plans start at just a ten (10) hour commitment, and increase at ten (10) hour increments above the minimum commitment. The Prinz Law Office Unveils New Advisory and Contract Review Subscription Plans

The Prinz Law Office is pleased to announce the availability of new advisory and contract review subscription plans, which will be offered on both a monthly and a quarterly basis, effective immediately. These plans are intended for clients with ongoing but unpredictable legal needs who are seeking more certainty with their legal budget and prefer not to work with an attorney on a billable hour arrangement. The plans will provide the client with access to a defined set of legal services during the subscription period, as well as access to certain additional services outside the defined legal services for a specified flat fee charge. Unlike many other legal subscription plans currently on the market, clients will have no obligation to remain on the subscription plan beyond the defined subscription period, and may elect to upgrade or discontinue the subscription upon expiration at their sole and absolute discretion. For more information about the firm's new subscription plans, please schedule a new client consultation today.
