Prinz Law Management Consulting Announces Launch of New Graduate Discount Program

Prinz Law Management Consulting is pleased to announce the launch of its new graduate discount program, which is designed to assist new law school graduates who have been caught up in the current economic crisis.

The new graduate discount program will enable new law school graduates to take advantage of the firm's specialized legal consulting services, designed for the lawyer-entrepreneur, at a significantly reduced rates. The aim is to make these support services more affordable for new lawyers who find themselves on the job market in this tough economy.

Firm Managing Principal Kristie Prinz said, "The move from law school student to practicing lawyer is always a challenging step to take even in good financial times, but this year, it is further complicated by the difficult economic climate we are all in. We wanted to offer new law school graduates a more affordable way to get the help they need to survive and thrive in this tough economy."

Prinz Law Management Consulting is a professional consulting services firm based in the Silicon Valley, whose mission is to provide new law firms with practical, step-by-step resources on how to launch and build a successful law firm in today's competitive legal market. Unlike many other legal coaching and consulting services providers on the market, Prinz Law Management Consulting is designed by practicing lawyers with small law firms for other practicing lawyers launching small law firms. Thus, Prinz Law Management Consulting clients are uniquely able to benefit from our advice, which was developed through our own experiences.
